ORIGIN OF SOME PHRASES. - The origin of the term sub-rosa, or "under the rose," is said to be the following:

Cupid gave a rose to Hippocrates, and from this legend arose the practice of suspending a rose over the table while eating, when it was intended that the conversation must be kept secret. The explanation of the origin of "by hook or by crook" is that in the old time persons entitled to get firewood in the king's forest were limited to such dead branches as they could tear down with a "hook or a crook with-out hurt to his Majesty's tree." "In spite of his teeth" originated thus: King John, of England, once demanded of a Jew the sum of ten thousand mark-, and on being refused, ordered that the Isralite should have one of his teeth drawn every day until he gave his consent The Jew submitted to the loss of seven, and then paid the required sum, and hence the expression, "in spite of his teeth."

GERANIUMS WILL DRIVE OFF SNAKES .-Every species of snake may be permanently driven away from an intested place by planting geraniums. In South Africa the Caffir people thus rid their premises of snakes. A missionary of South Africa had his parsonage surrounded by a narrow belt of geraniums, which effectually protected the residence from any kind of snake. A few yards away from this belt a snake would occasionally be found. It is well known that the whole geranium genius is highly redolent of volatile oils-lemon scented, musk scented, and peppermint scented. What, therefore, is a very pleasant nosegay for man is repugnant to the serpent tribe. - Rural

A card.—Circumstances rendering a sirable that I should locate in Baltimore, I have transferred my DENTAL PRACTICE in Alexandria to DR. D. N. EUST. He has been a second with me as to need for so many years associated with me as to need no introduction or endorsement, his skill, ability and reputation for honesty and high integrity being well known. I cordially commend him to the favor of my friends and patients, as well worthy of the position to which he suc eeds, and bespeak for him the practice with which, for so long, I have been favored.
